Phil is reaching out to our members and other associations to try to get the info you requested. We thought that a conference call in the near future would be helpful to make sure we focus on USTR's needs. We could also discuss the direction this Issues might take in the TPP.

Would you and the team have time to discuss this week?

Best regards,
Ralph

Though I am guessing you did not have much free time. I am sure it was tough negotiations – can I ask, were you able to discuss including provisions on trade secret protection in the TPP?

Look forward to hearing from you – hope you are otherwise well.

Good to hear from you and Happy New Year to you also.

I'm just back in the office today after several weeks back in NZ - was great to catch up with family and friends after two years away and we also had a family wedding to celebrate.

As you know, I'm not currently involved in the TPP process but I'll pass your concerns on to those who are. Given I'm not involved I haven't seen the proposal. (b) (4)

Hi Ralph, Phil and Faye

Happy New Year to all. I am back at work today after a very pleasant break. I attach for your information a press release issued a few days ago by an academic at the Australian National University about an article which will be published today in the Australian Medical Journal, criticizing the TPP. Prof Faunce has been a passionate anti big pharma advocate but to date hasn't focused on our industry. I will send the article once it is available.

US-BASED MULTINATIONAL PHARMACEUTICAL AND TOBACCO COMPANIES USE NEW TRADE DEAL TO THREATEN PUBLIC HEALTH LEGISLATION

EMBARGOED UNTIL 12 NOON SUNDAY, 16 JANUARY 2011

US-based multinational pharmaceutical companies are lobbying for Trans-Pacific Partnership Agreement (TPPA) provisions similar to those in the Australia-US Free Trade Agreement, which would reduce cost-effective government regulatory control of pharmaceuticals, threatening equitable access to medicines, according to an article in the Medical Journal of Australia.

The TPPA is a multilateral free trade agreement (now at the final stages of negotiation) aimed at increasing economic integration in the Asia-Pacific region.

Assoc Prof Thomas Faunce, ARC Future Fellow at the College of Law and College of Medicine, Biology and the Environment at the Australian National University, and co-author elucidated the likely content and impact of the upcoming TPPA negotiations and the policy implications they would have on Australia and the region's public health and medicines policy.

Prof Faunce identified three issues that have been discussed during TPPA negotiations that would have significant public health and medicine policy implications for Australia:

- ways to approach regulatory coherence and transparency;
- how to benefit multinational and small-medium enterprises (SMEs); and
- multilateral investor-state dispute settlement.

Prof Faunce said that US-based multinational pharmaceutical companies were lobbying for TPPA provisions, which would limit the development of Australian generic medicine enterprises and restrict patient access to cheap, bioequivalent prescription drugs. He said that, US-based tobacco companies were also lobbying for provisions that would impede public health legislation such as plain packaging of cigarettes.

"Of particular concern is that proposed TPPA multilateral investor-state dispute settlement procedures would allow US corporations, as well as those of other nations, to obtain damages against Australian governments through international arbitral proceedings if their investments are impeded by Australian public health and environment protection legislation," Prof Faunce said.

"This will severely impede the capacity of our public health regulators to apply the precautionary principle in relation to hazardous chemicals and products

"Rather than acceding to these demands Australia TPPA negotiators have a responsibility both to this nation and our developing neighbours to promote regulatory coherence on comparative cost-effectiveness research on new drugs, as well as stronger anti-monopoly and anti-fraud laws for the Australian pharmaceutical sector."

The Medical Journal of Australia is a publication of the Australian Medical Association.

Tim –

I just got your phone message. Actually, the text is going up for cleared advisors now. You should probably get an email notification shortly, and then the text should be posted before COB today. On the overall process, we are hoping to share with the other TPP countries in advance. (Actually, we were hoping to share with them yesterday, but you know how things go with this one). We will ask for comments from advisors by COB next Wednesday, and then our plan is to share with TPP partners so they can have some chance of consulting before discussing in Lima.

Also, are we confirmed for 2:30 Thursday?

Thanks,
Daniel

Dear Trustees:

As discussed during our bi-weekly trustees call on December 3rd, this Friday's meeting with Ambassador Marantis will focus on three of our initiatives as well as our broader mission. The three initiatives include:

- 1) Transpacific Partnership (TPP) - suggested speaker is Joe Damond
- 2) Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) - suggested speaker is Ralph Ives
- 3) United States-China Strategic & Economic Dialogue (S & ED) - Please let us know if anyone would like to speak on this; otherwise, Claude will.

Note to Joe and Ralph: Please advise if you are not prepared to speak on the respective initiatives for which you have been suggested.

Claude will make the opening remarks, and we will also explore where else there could be an opportunity to pursue open global markets for American healthcare products and services.

The TPP and APEC position papers are attached. The TPP paper has been vetted and is ready to go. The APEC paper has been developed by our team working very closely with Ralph Ives. Please let us know by 5:00 pm today if you have questions or comments on this paper. We intend to share this with USTR.

We will not be doing a conference call prior to this meeting, but, for those who can, we will plan to meet here at FI at 9:30 am on Friday to walk over together. We can also further discuss the agenda through e-mail.

Please do not hesitate to contact us with any additional questions.

Best,

Lauren

CLEARED ADVISOR COMMUNICATION

Hi Shawn and Brian. Dana passed on the request below from Fabiana Jorge to me. I'm responding to you in your capacity as cleared advisors from the generic pharmaceutical industry, since the response involves nonpublic information. As you know, I'm afraid that means you can't share this information as such with persons who are not cleared advisors. However, my hope is that by giving the two of you this account, that would help to guide you in gathering any additional information that you may feel you need from Fabiana, or from others, that you think might give us a more complete picture.

First, I'm grateful for Fabiana's interest in making sure we have the best possible information (and will tell her so directly by way of followup on this email). Please don't hesitate to reach out to USTR directly on these matters.

Second, the following information is predecisional/nonpublic:

Barbara,

A meeting this week would be greatly appreciated. (b)(3) & (b)(5)
(b)(3) (b)(5)

On a separate note, our Alliance for Healthcare Competitiveness -- group scheduled to meet with Demetrios on Dec 17 -- is now also interested in ASEAN -TIFA because:

Assistant U.S. Trade Representative for Southeast Asia and the Pacific Barbara Weisel said last week that the U.S. hopes to work with the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) to support economic integration in the areas of logistics, electronic commerce and health care, which she said are of "high priority to both the United States and the ASEAN countries."

dear david

just a quick note to thank you for taking your evening "down" time to share your perspective on the TPP with our dupont east asia country manager team. it was both interesting and informative - and, i hope, useful as negotiations go forward. as i said on the phone, your openness to private sector concerns and genuine willingness to listen to our input, is both gratifying and exceptional.

again, my thanks and best wishes to you for continued success!

Hi, Doug. I'm attaching the instructions from stakeholder participation, which we just received from the Singapore delegation. Note that time and space is limited, so you should contact the Singapore POC as soon as possible. Also, rooms have not been booked for stakeholders at this round, so you will need to look for something on your own. 6th Negotiation Round, 28 March - 1 April 2011

Info-Guide for Stakeholders' Forum (27 March 2011)

As part of the efforts by TPP parties to promote the exchange of views amongst stakeholders, a Stakeholders' Forum has been scheduled for the afternoon of 27th March. A stakeholder programme schedule will be issued after registration closes.

Registration

2) Registration is required for all stakeholders, and will take place from 7 - 18 March 2011. Due to logistical constraints, Singapore will be unable to accept late registrations.

3) Interested stakeholders are requested to send the following details to tpp@tricom.com.sg (Attn: Cheryl Ng).

- Name of organisation and representatives
- Contact details
- Synopsis of presentations
- Relevance to the TPP Negotiations

List of Speakers

4) Due to capacity constraints, it may be necessary for the organisers to limit the number of speakers at the Forum. Stakeholders will be informed of whether they are invited to speak at the stakeholder Forum by 21 March 2011. In the event of over-whelming response, the organisers' decision will be final.

[Internal note to CNs: In view of the consensus among the CNs to restrict stakeholder involvement to the half-day programme on 27 March 2011 (Sunday), we can only accommodate a limited number of stakeholders. If there are many stakeholders expressing interest to participate during the Singapore round, Singapore will have to pre-select stakeholders. If Parties have specific stakeholders to recommend, please flag it the Singapore Virtual Secretariat for consideration by 18 March 2011.]

The full list of stakeholders will be furnished to all Parties (through the Virtual Secretariat) by 22 March 2011.]

Access to Stakeholder Forum

5) All participants will be issued stakeholder passes, and are requested to wear these passes during the event. Only individuals with the passes will be allowed entry.

6) Delegates from all TPP Parties will be invited to attend the stakeholder event at their own discretion.

Access to Negotiation Venue

7) Stakeholders will not be allowed to access the negotiation venue, nor to observe negotiations.

USTR-IPW 00164

TransPacificPartnership
S I N G A P O R E
6th Negotiation Round, 28 March - 1 April 2011

8) Trespassers will be evicted from the negotiation venue.

Request for meeting with negotiating Parties

9) Any request to meet with the negotiating Parties should be made directly with the relevant Parties or through the Singapore Virtual Secretariat (Wong Choo Sin: wong_choo_sin@mti.gov.sg). However, due to the tight negotiating schedule planned for the 6th Round, responses to stakeholder requests will be at the discretion of individual TPP Parties.

[Internal note to CNs: The Singapore Virtual Secretariat will forward such requests to the relevant parties, either through each countries' virtual secretariat, or through the chapter chair.]

Administrative Advice

10) As a general rule, public demonstrations and processions are not allowed in Singapore without a permit from the Singapore Police Force, due to their propensity for law and order problems. The Singapore Police Force takes a serious view against activities which disrupt public order and peace. Offenders may face prosecution.

Barbara,

I hope your travels went well.

The Alliance for Healthcare Competitiveness will be visiting Demetrios on Wednesday. We didn't have an ask, so I sent this around last week. This is still a draft, but my sense is that this will be our ask -- after we get through the who we are presentation. (Demetrios heard this a couple of years ago at SF when we were just starting the group.)

I think at this point if we just received some positive feedback, the AHCers would leave satisfied. So far, this group seems to be more process than substance.

Lunch is still on offer.

Hi Jared and Renee:

Thanks for taking the time to meet with our team earlier this week. Further to our discussion regarding the (b)(3) & (b)(5) (b)(3) & (b)(5)

In addition, as mentioned, we would be interested in bringing some of our members in to further discuss suggested revisions to TPP P&R text. Leo will follow-up with you separately to set up a time that would be convenient for you.

Thanks again, and feel free to let us know if you have any questions.
Best,
Jennifer

Dear all,

We found last week's discussion helpful and look forward to discussing these issues in further detail.

On next steps, what is your expected timeline for presentation of actual text proposals and/or scheduling of additional meetings with the USTR team on this issue? As Daniel Watson and I indicated last week, we will need to move quite expeditiously if we want to have the possibility of developing any potential new text proposals in advance of the next TPP negotiating round in June.

Best regards,

Daniel

Dear Ralph,

Thank you very much! I spoke with Katsumata san this week regarding the TPP Presentation.

The likely venue will be an international meeting auditorium in the Diet Office Building.

They are expecting roughly 100 Diet members to attend, but they do not know exactly how many will be there yet. They will let us know as we get closer.

Katsumata san recommended that the presentation be 20 minutes, to allow for 40 minutes of Q/A and discussion.

We have arranged for simultaneous translation from Simul.

Here are the key points that Katsumata san would like your remarks to cover:

1. What is TPP? What does it mean for Asia?
2. Why is Japan's participation essential?
3. Some people in Japan have said that agriculture will be sacrificed, but that Japan will not really gain very much in return. How should we think about this?
4. Does the US really want Japan in TPP?
5. Some people in Japan say that the reason Japan is not competitive is not because of tariffs but rather because of exchange rates. What will change if tariffs are lowered (meaning, how will lowering tariffs increase competitiveness)?
6. What is the merit for Japan in joining TPP? How is success defined?

The event is entirely off the record.

I think the slides that you have drafted track well with these points.

I have read the invitation to the event, which was sent out by Tarutoko san and Katsumata san. It is very good -- the text describes you as a true expert on the subject, having spent many years at USTR and working closely (supervising) key officials who are currently still there. (The flyer was written and sent by the Diet members based on the bio we provided to them (they did not show it to me first, which is fine. It is well-composed.)

It may be better to not use the AdvaMed template, except towards the end when you make the point regarding advanced medical technology as an example.

The template brands the text as AdvaMed points, but I think it may be better to have them framed as your own observations, based on your long experience negotiating trade agreements as a former senior US trade official. Then towards the end you can link into some observations from the perspective of the advanced medical technology industry, which you currently represent as EVP of AdvaMed -- or a flow similar to that.

It may be good to find a handshake graphic that is visually even -- this one appears that the hand on the left is reaching from above to the hand on the right, which is positioned slightly lower. Since there is a perception among doubters in Japan that the US may get the upper hand via TPP, I think an even handshake may be best -- I will look for one.

I just returned from Tokyo this morning (am sending this email from the car heading home), Saturday, and will be here in DC for the next two weeks (can meet or speak via phone at any time). We can set up a pre-trip briefing based on your schedule if you would like.

Please have a good weekend!

Sincerely yours, Andy

- (1) Who would be sent from Croplife?
- (2) How much time you need?

- (4) When would you want to deliver the presentation -- our suggestion would be Monday, December 6, Tuesday December 7, or Wednesday, December 8 -- as it would dovetail with the IP meetings we'll be having.

Please let me know, and we'll see if we can make this happen.

Stan, I wanted to discuss the upcoming TPP negotiations in New Zealand in December. I just returned from a trip to Kuala Lumpur and Hanoi, during which I made presentations on agchemical data protection to the appropriate government officials. I am pleased to report that their reception to our TRIPS 39.3 emphasis on data exclusivity was very positive. My colleagues at CropLife Asia were inquiring whether there is an opportunity for a representative of our industry to either make a presentation there or if there is an opening on the US delegation for a US representative to participate? Appreciate your advice.

I wanted to respond (belatedly in the flux of IPR related TPP and other obligations), and clarify that I received this requested input and that it is very useful. Also, I wanted to reemphasize that we continue to be interested, to the extent you can distill such complex issues, in the core issues that would, in your opinion, cut across the regional issues you've identified. In other words, can you help us identify, from your perspective, what are the general, cross-cutting provisions that could/should apply to all TPP partners and "weed out" those provisions that may have been developed specifically to address particular problems in particular markets.

Thanks!

Thanks again for coming by with the team earlier this week to discuss the challenges your industry is facing in various markets with respect to pricing and reimbursement. As mentioned, it was a great meeting, and in addition, for the reasons below, quite timely.

Hopefully a lot of this is "off-the-shelf", but if we could ask for this input by end of next week, the sooner the better really, that would be of great value to us. Maybe even a matrix summarizing the key issues.

Doug,

Thanks for your email, sorry for the delayed response. I've sent your note to Stan McCoy for a response, the IP folks will be able to give you an update.

If you don't hear back from him, he's at SMccoy@ustr.eop.gov

Thanks
david

David, I had to miss the ITAC 3 briefing on the TPP negotiations to date. Jim DeLisi's minutes in (b)(3) & (b)(5) (b)(3) & (b)(5) I would be interested in learning more after I return to the US, especially on (b)(3) & (b)(5)

Doug

Thanks, Greg. Will take a look as soon as I'm able to. It looks like we are going to be off line for awhile, but will get back to you once I've had a chance to review.

Best,
Daniel

Greg –

Actually, we will be out next week for Round 6, so even this week is not a high priority. If you can get me your input by April 1, that would be great.

Hi Barbara - John sent through a link to the P4 agreement. I have taken a quick look at the rules of origin. Someone owes USTR a royalty payment - these are our rules. They will need some tweaking, but will likely not need major surgery. This is a very pleasant surprise. I will study more closely over the weekend.

Hi Barbara - I looked at the rules much more carefully over the weekend. There is no doubt, this is our template. We will

(b)(3) & (b)(5)

All in all, as mentioned on Friday, this is a great place to start. I'm confident that we will be able to come to agreement from here.

Thanks.

Would love to do lunch, but looks doubtful. Leaving next Friday for Asia .

Have a great weekend down there.

Ah, well then, you'll probably win - at least I hope so. My CEOs told Amb M that we strongly support TPP.

Isn't it about time for summer lunch?

I'm having a great week at Va Beach; weather couldn't be better! I hope you're taking some time off - and more than just this weekend.

Enjoy!

Hey Probir,

Thanks for reaching out and sorry I missed you as well. Unfortunately, I am flying out to India on Friday. Perhaps we can catch up when you get back from Singapore.

Let me know when you are back and I'll give you a call.

Travel safe and best of luck in your discussions.

Best regards,

Claude
